

NC GROUND STEAK FESTIVAL

The North Carolina Ground Steak Festival takes place the second Saturday in June in downtown Dobson. Enjoy the famous ground steak sandwich of Surry County, along with live bluegrass and old-time string music, a juried arts and crafts show and a children's area with activities. The festival is presented by the Dobson Tourism Development Authority. Details are available on the Discover Dobson Facebook page.

LODGING ALONG THE TRAIL

WHAT IS GROUND STEAK?

Ground steak originated in Surry County during the Great Depression as a way to stretch the amount of servings from a pound of ground beef or ground chuck.

Cooks would brown or boil the meat, add flour and water (or milk), and season with salt and pepper. This resulted in a tender, loose-meat patty that was placed on a bun and often topped with mayonnaise, slaw and tomato, although some places served it on a plate, minus the bun, accompanied by sides.

So tasty was this frugal creation that it remained on local menus long after the tough times of the 1930s.

Although it has a similar consistency, ground steak is not to be confused with a sloppy joe, which is spicier and made with ketchup or Worcestershire sauce.

Ground steak hooks you from the first bite with a juicy, melt-in-your-mouth flavor that is unmistakable.

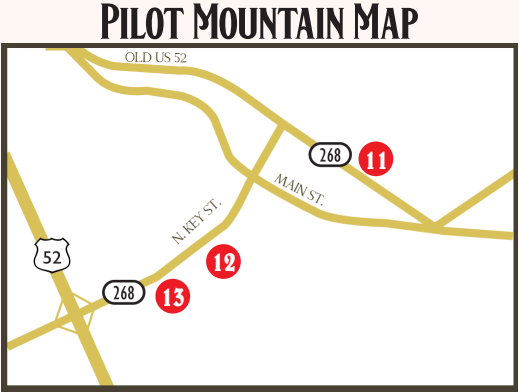

VARIATIONS OF GROUND STEAK

While the basics of making ground steak are similar, each eatery along the trail has a slightly different recipe. Several of these recipes are considered "secret" and not shared with the public.

There are also variations in the way ground steak can be ordered. Some eateries serve it on a plate without a bun and accompanied by sides. Others mix ground steak with eggs for breakfast, or serve it on a biscuit or sourdough bread throughout the day.
